

Indiana University South Bend

BFA Theatre in Dance

Those auditioning for Theatre Performance and Musical Theatre Performance will first be brought in one by one to perform their monologue and song selections.

The Dance and Musical Theatre Performance students will then be brought back in to do a dance audition.

Students do not need to come prepared with choreography but should be ready to learn a combination.

Please dress to move.

IUSB's Dance Program:

Indiana University South Bend offers a BFA in theatre with a dance concentration. The BFA degree offers a flexible program teaching a wide spectrum of dance styles and based within a theatre program. This unique degree offers students experience with dance, but also acting, production and management; perfect for those who, perform in an established company, aspire to start their own company or who wish to teach dance and must know how to produce dance productions.

Students may also audition for the IU South Bend Dance Company, which performs several times a year on campus and in the greater community. The IUSB dance company has a core membership of 12-15 dancers who perform a repertory of works as well as new works for events on and off campus as well as a yearly dance concert presented in the campus auditorium. The dance company rehearses weekly and performs regularly throughout the year.

Throughout their time at IU South Bend, students are expected to be active participants in the production and educational activities of the Theatre and Dance Department. Students are encouraged to seek out valuable summer experiences by applying to summer internship programs or auditioning for summer stock or other professional level theatres or dance companies as a supplement to their academic year educational opportunities at IU South Bend. Students are also encouraged to attend audition conferences as well as educational conferences to expand their education.
